

The Journey

Bob Atchley, 1996

Some folks see themselves as just a body and a mind
But the Consciousness "I AM" is a key to other doors
Within each "I AM" is the great source of all being.

Light from within, that's our illumination
To dwell in silent peace, that's our meditation
To see the passing world, with clearness and compassion.

And when we clearly see, and when we clearly see
And when we clearly see, we are drawn to be love and to serve.

To be here now and not just in our minds
Means seeing what we see, free of judgments, please
To know what others need, we must clearly see.

Light from within, that's our illumination
To dwell in silent peace, that's our meditation
To see the passing world, with clearness and compassion.

And when we clearly see, we are drawn to be love and to serve
And when we clearly see, we are drawn to be love and to serve.
